SHOT AT JUDGE STAFFORD

Youth Maddened Because Judge Denied Him Probation

Ray M. Stewart, 18, tried to shoot up criminal court at Washington, D. C., Monday, when Justice Stafford refused to release him on probation after conviction for attempted highway robbery. Before officers could overpower him Stewart whipped out a pistol and put three bullets perilously near Justice Stafford and Assistant United States Attorneys Given and Hawken. He was sent to jail to answer a more serious charge.

One of the bullets narrowly missed Hawken's head and was buried in a window-sill behind. Stewart was turning toward Justice Stafford as though to shoot when several policemen leaped upon him. The court room was thrown into an uproar and many dived for cover. The attack came so suddenly that few realized what was happening until the man had been overpowered.

A CITY IN A GORGE.

The First View of La Paz is Startling to the Tourist.

James Bryce in his book "South America" gives a picturesque description of the approach to La Paz, Bolivia. He tells how the traveler who nears La Paz has a surprise in front of him if he is coming from Lake Titicaca, the usual route from the coast. At a point 13,000 feet above sea level the railway from Guayaquil meets the railway from Antofagasta, 400 miles away to the south. "From this point, called Viacha, the route turns eastward toward the Cordillera, the line climbing slowly in wide sweeps over the dusty and shrubless plateau on whose thin grass sheep are browsing. There is not a house visible, and the smooth slope seems to run right up against the mountain wall beyond. Where can La Paz be? asks the traveler.

"Presently, however, he perceives strings of hamas and donkeys and wayfarers on foot moving along the slope toward a point where they all suddenly vanish and are no more seen. Then a spot is reached where the railway itself seems to end between a few sheds. He gets out and walks a few yards to the west and then suddenly pulls up, with a start, on the edge of a yawning abyss.

"Right beneath him, 1,500 feet below, a gray, red roofed city fills the bottom of the gorge and climbs up its sides on both banks of the torrent that foams through it. Every street and square, every yard and garden, is laid out under the eye as if on a map, and one almost seems to hear the rattle of vehicles over stony pavements coming faintly up through the thin air."

Not Becoming.

"I didn't think Mrs. De Browne looked very attractive at the opera last night," said Dubbleigh.

"So? Why, usually she is radiant. What did she have on?" asked Winkletop.

"A large sized groch," said Dubbleigh.—Harper's Weekly.

RECENT WEDDINGS

French-Clement

W. Eldridge French and Miss Mary Clement were very quietly married last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Carrie S. Clement, on Western avenue, only the parents of the contracting parties witnessing the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Peter Black. After the wedding a large reception was given at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. French, attended by about 125 relatives and friends.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers of the season, the parlor with syringas and ferns, the sitting room with buttercups, daisies and ferns, and the dining room with red clover and ferns. The bride and groom received alone, the bride being gown in white crepe de chene over satin. She wore a veil caught with lilies of the valley and her dress was trimmed with the same flower. Her bouquet was of bride's roses.

Lindol French and Raymond Worthen were ushers and Edward French and Raymond Lougee were the door tenders. Laughlin's orchestra was stationed in the dining room concealed by palms and played during the reception. Mrs. Robert E. French and Mrs. S. D. Atwood cut the ice cream which was passed by Misses Ione Barrett, Helen Newell and Lola French. Miss Arlene Deware had charge of the punch bowl, Miss Marjorie French passed the flower favors, Miss Clara Carpenter looked after the gifts and Miss Winifred Merrill attended to the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. French are enjoying a short wedding trip and on their return will occupy a flat in the Roosevelt.

The groom was a graduate of the commercial department of the academy in 1909 and the bride from the literary department the same year and the commercial department the year following. Mrs. French has been employed in the office of E. and T. Fairbanks and Co. and Mr. French is serving his apprenticeship in the scale business at the same plant. He is prominent in church and musical circles, having been director of the Universalist boy choir and now of the Methodist. Guests from away included the groom's uncle and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eldridge of Wellesley Hills, Mass., and Miss Arlene Deware of Pepperell, Mass.
